Another Case of Smallpox.

Dr. Frank Mitchell has fallen a victim to the smallpox and is quarantined at his home on Third street below Butler. He has been sick for the past week with symptoms of typhoid malaria, but it has only been within the past few days that the eruption indicative of smallpox has broken out. The case is varicoid, a milder form of the smallpox.

The patient is quite sick, but was still able to sit up Monday. It is thought that the disease was contracted of the Moore woman whom Dr. Mitchell, while passing along Hart street, was called in to see. While the visits were not repeated, it is thought that the pest was communicated at this time.

A Story in Stationery

Oh, this by all means, as she indicated the new and striking RUBY, it is so brilliant, (just like him,) and then you write on it with WHITE INK, and the carries the reliable makes. So our hero provided himself with a box of red paper and a bottle of white ink. Then the young lady pleasantly intimated that such a beautiful letter as this combination would produce, should be sealed with WAX and stamped with an INITIAL SEAL. Here was more trouble. What color of wax? and the correct intimation came at once—GOLD. It would look so nicely with the red and white. "Whose initial should it be?" Oh, yours, as you write. "But which name?" She calls me Freck, but my name is Smith.
